SAIS SUMMER PROGRAMS 2014

March 11, 2014

Dear Educational Advisor:

We are pleased to introduce SAIS Summer Graduate Programs 2014 offered by The Paul H. Nitze School of Advanced International Studies (SAIS) of The Johns Hopkins University. SAIS is one of the world's leading graduate schools dedicated to the study of international affairs. With courses in Washington, D.C. and Nanjing, China, students and professionals alike will be able to hone their career skills, advance their education, and gain meaningful experience with our summer programs.

This summer, SAIS is featuring international relations courses in such areas as development, economics, energy and environmental resources, conflict management, law, regional studies and more. Students may also choose to pursue a Certificate in International Studies or a Certificate in International Development. Through the Summer Language Institute in Washington, D.C., participants may enroll in Arabic, Chinese, English, Hindi-Urdu, Persian or Russian language courses that focus on international issues and themes.

Our programs provide many opportunities for personal enrichment and professional enhancement. SAIS courses in Washington are taught within the intimacy of a small classroom environment during convenient evening hours to accommodate the demanding schedules of students with internships or other commitments. SAIS summer offerings in Nanjing, housed at the state-of-the-art facilities of the Hopkins-Nanjing Center, allow students to explore the evolving dynamics of East Asia in an immersive residential program. Please also note that rising undergraduate seniors as well as graduates are welcome to apply for these summer opportunities.

We would appreciate you making the enclosed preview brochure available to interested students in addition to displaying it in a common area easily accessible to students. Should you need additional materials or any further information about SAIS Summer Programs, please go to our website, www.sais-jhu.edu/summer, or contact us at 202.663.5671 or sais.summer@jhu.edu.

Sincerely,
